SOCI 148 - Political Sociology

What does it mean to talk about politics? What do we mean when we discuss ‘the political?’ What is the relationship between politics and other aspects of society? How, and on what basis, is political authority organized? Who makes political decisions? How do political structures of authority and decision making come to be critiqued, challenged, or reconfigured? How does political organization relate to individual people and larger social groups and institutions – and how do these relations work to cultivate or curtail the attainment of freedom, equality and justice? These are some of the broad questions that a critical sociological approach to politics aims to address and which we will be considering over the next ten weeks.

This course approaches political ideas and practices in light of central sociological concepts including class, race, and gender. The course takes an explicitly critical approach in the sense of not taking concepts, claims, or practices – political or otherwise – for granted. Our aim will be to explore the social and historical roots of political theories and practices in order that we may all contribute to more informed reflection and practice as political actors in 2023 and beyond.

Motivations & Goals for Our Political Sociology Course

Upon satisfactory completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Develop and deploy a critical sociological perspective; more specifically, understand and apply major critical sociological concepts – including class, race, and gender – as they relate to the knowledge and practice of politics broadly conceived;
- Reflect upon the strengths and weaknesses of different political structures and philosophies of organization, particularly as these different structures relate to the enhancement or diminishment of individual and collective rights and responsibilities;
- Recognize and reflect upon various principles of political authority and decision-making;
- Critically consider the interdependent relationships between politics and economics; investigate the significance of the concept ‘political-economy;’
- Evaluate the role of politics in relation to questions of individual and collective autonomy and integrity; investigate the significance of the concept of ‘bio-politics;’
- Identify and communicate interesting aspects of, or illuminating relations between, theoretical concepts and empirical applications;
- Critique concepts and analyses, evaluating their capabilities and limitations;
- Write short-answer essays with organized, well-supported arguments;
- Identify potential interventions or transformations aimed at addressing issues of human freedom, equity, justice, and well-being.

Course Grading Scale

98+/: A+
98-93: A
92-90: A-
89-88: B+
87-83: B
82-80: B-
79-78: C+
77-73: C
72-70: C-
69-60: D
59 and below: F

Please Note: Late work will lose 1/3 of a letter grade per day late.

Please Note: No coursework will be accepted, and no grade adjustments will be made past the last day of our university-scheduled course final – Tuesday December 12th.

Discussion Boards

For each of our five discussion board assignments, students will be asked to locate and post a link to a credible news source that examines a topic or issue related to our course materials. In addition to the posted link, each discussion board submission requires a one paragraph summary and a one paragraph reflection/explanation relating the article to our course materials.

For full credit, students must post a stand-alone response. Responding to others’ posts is strongly encouraged, but not required for full credit. Further discussion board details will be covered in lecture.

Please submit by end of day (11:59 pm) Fridays. 5 posts x 20 points = 100 points.

Optional Extra Credit
A write up (1-2 pages double-spaced) reflecting on any of the documentaries made available during the quarter may be submitted for extra credit. Extra credit points will be added to final papers at the end of the quarter.

Each extra credit write-up is worth 10 points. Up to 20 points total - two documentary write-ups – can be submitted for extra credit.

Please submit extra credit directly to Professor Payne via email (capayne@ucsd.edu) any time up to Tuesday December 12th.

Please include your name and our course information (SOCI 148).

Respect

At their best, college courses flourish when everyone involved takes seriously the responsibility to engage course material in a critical manner. Critical engagement is grounded in thoughtful reflection, and such thoughtful reflection may provide opportunities for respectful disagreement. Respectful disagreement often leads to illuminating discussions and further thoughtful engagement for us all. There is a world of difference between disagreement and disrespect.

What I expect and require in our class – both in-person and online - is a mature and mindful space that refrains from personal attacks and explicit or implied hostility. In the intellectual and ethical interests of us all, I do not tolerate disrespectful or hostile discussion. As we cultivate our learning spaces together, it promotes our intellectual endeavors to harbor these differences and similarities, agreements and disagreements, towards promoting the free exchange of ideas and a space where that is possible.

Academic Integrity

All academic work must be done by the individual to whom it is assigned, without unauthorized aid of any kind. Avoid even unintentional plagiarism. Give full credit to the sources for your ideas and writing. Collaboration in studying is OK; collaboration in writing is not. Use of AI generators to do one’s SOCI 148 coursework is a violation of academic integrity.

Violations of academic integrity will result in a grade of ‘0’ for the assignment. Violations will also be referred to the college for administrative action. If you have any questions regarding academic integrity, please do not hesitate to be in touch with me at any time. Please also consult the bottom of this syllabus for further information.

UCSD’s academic integrity information can be viewed at: https://students.ucsd.edu/academics/academic-integrity/index.html

Please look it over and do not hesitate to be in touch with any questions.

Accommodations and Important Resources

Every learning environment should be accessible to all. If you have a disability and require accommodations for this class, please contact:
RELIGIOUS OBSERVANCES

Please let me know as soon as possible if, for any religious reasons, you will require an extension on a part of your overall assessments.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITES

Please let me know as soon as possible if, for any university activities, you will require an extension on a part of your overall assessments.

COUNSELING AND PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES

The Counseling Center (CAPS) offers counseling for personal & career concerns, self-help information, and referrals for additional mental health services. It is located in UCSD’s Galbraith Hall 190.

THE HUB

UCSD has a Response Team that helps students who need immediate support. This support could include short-term provision of food, shelter, or financial crisis among other items. In many situations, campus personnel will coordinate with community social service agencies to support our students in these situations. If you are in need of immediate support, please contact basicneeds@ucsd.edu or call 1-858-246-2632.

WELL BEING – “The Zone”

REPORTING SEXUAL VIOLENCE

Please know that I, like all UCSD faculty, am mandated to report any allegations of sexual assault involving members of the University community to the campus Title IX office. You do not have to follow up with them if you do not wish to, but it is important that you are aware of your resources as well as rights, such as withdrawing from a class if need be. Review information about your rights, how to pursue a university discipline charge and a criminal charge, and how to report the violence without pursuing any charges at: https://sos.ucsd.edu/filing-a-report/index.html or call: 858-534-8298.

UCSD ESCORT SERVICE

Call extension 4-WALK or (858) 534-9255 from sunset to 4 a.m. daily. After 1 a.m., police department staff may provide this service. You can arrange a repeating escort so a community service officer (CSO) will meet you at the same place and time, which makes it more convenient to get a late-night escort.

CHEATING AND PLAGIARISM

Cheating and plagiarism are serious offenses. You are plagiarizing or cheating if you:

- For written work, copy anything from a book, article, website, or AI generator and add or paste it into your paper without using quotation marks and/or without providing the full reference for the quotation, including page number
- For written work, summarize / paraphrase in your own words ideas you got from a book, article, or the web without providing the reference for the source
- Use academic visuals obtained from a book, article, or website without providing a reference for the visual
- Recycle a paper you wrote for another class
- Turn in the same (or a very similar paper) for two classes
- Purchase or otherwise obtain a paper and turn it in as your own work
- Copy the work of a classmate

Consequences of cheating and plagiarism

Consequences are at the instructor’s and the administration’s discretion. Instructors are mandated by the UCSD system to report the offense to the administration. Consequences may include any of the following: warning; failing the assignment; failing the class; probation; suspension; expulsion
